STORY AFTER STORY

In 1114, Klosterneuburg Abbey was founded by Margrave Leopold III. For over 900 years, history has been written here and stories have been told. It is those stories that we have collected over the centuries – they make our spirituality as well as the close connection of this house to Austrian history tangible.

The story of the Verdun altar (1181) illustrates the history of the abbey's spirituality as well as its closeness to the people. The altar, apart from its material splendour, served one purpose above all – to make the Holy Scriptures and the Holy Mass easier to understand, even for those who were unable to read and write.

The history of Klosterneuburg Abbey is closely tied to the history of this country's formation – this is best illustrated by the endowment of the archducal hat (1616) as the country's Holy Crown. The archducal hat was given to the abbey – the last resting place of Leopold III – by Maximilian III as the third holy Habsburg crown and can still be seen at the Treasury.

The laying of the foundation stone for the abbey church (1114) is a symbol for the abbey's longevity and its responsibility to create. At this event, wine from its own winery was served. It is the oldest winery in Austria, which has been run by Klosterneuburg Abbey since the Middle Ages.

Discover the many stories of this place and let past days come back to live by visiting the Verdun altar, the treasury or the Baroque wine cellar and discover many more stories that make Klosterneuburg Abbey such a unique place and such a special experience.

UNVEIL THE PAST

After nine years of searching, Leopold III found his wife Agnes' bridal veil completely unscathed in an elderberry bush. He immediately set out to return the veil to his wife and the couple decided to build Klosterneuburg Abbey on the very spot where he had discovered it.

Their goal was to create a spiritual centre and seat of power, as well as a home.

Today, when we look at Agnes' veil in the treasury, or visit the margrave's residence in the Leopoldihof, their story comes alive again.

One place. A thousand stories.

ABBEY TOUR

The tour guides you through the abbey's centre, the medieval cloister, to see some of its most important works of art. You will see art pieces such as the seven-branched candelabra of Agnes from the 12th century and outstanding highlights of the Austrian High and Late Gothic periods in the medieval showroom.

The highlight of the tour is the Verdun altar in the Chapel of St. Leopold, which is also where St. Leopold is buried. This enamel work, created in 1181 by Nicholas of Verdun, is considered a major testimony to the art of medieval goldsmithing. The altar impresses with its extraordinary quality in terms of art, technique, and content.

The tour also leads through the abbey church, which is particularly impressive for its Baroque furnishings, the imperial oratorio of Charles VI and the 17th-century festival organ, which has been preserved in its original state.

ONE NIGHT STAY

Kaiser Karl VI had a vision: Become Karl III, King of Spain, and reside at the Real Sitio de San Lorenzo de El Escorial near Madrid. His plans did not exactly work out, but nothing can stop a king! The real Escorial no longer within his reach (or territories), he decided to build his own, improved version in Klosterneuburg. Renovation and expansion of the building started in 1730. But, like so many of his dreams, this one, too, should remain unfulfilled. He only got to spend one night in his new palace, on 14 November 1739. Maybe it was the officially stated food poisoning or maybe his fatty liver; regardless of the cause, Karl died in 1740 and never got to return to Klosterneuburg.

GRAND ABBEY TOUR

In the 18th century, the Augustinian Canon Regular Abbey of Klosterneuburg in Austria was supposed to be transformed from a medieval monastery into a grand Baroque complex, inspired by the Escorial.

The idea came from Emperor Charles VI, the father of Maria Theresa. However, the project was never completed, leaving behind a unique Baroque construction site. The guided tour showcases notable features such as the impressive fresco by Daniel Gran in the Marble Hall, depicting the glory of the House of Austria.

Visitors can also explore the well-preserved private apartments of Charles VI and the medieval cloister. The tour includes viewing sacred artworks with over 900 years of history, including the famous seven-armed bronze candelabra and the iconic Verdun Altar. Lastly, visitors can admire the baroque-style abbey church, known for its exquisite furnishings like the choir stalls, Emperor's Oratory, and early Baroque festival organ.

THE HISTORY OF OUR WINERY CAN BE TOLD. OR TASTED.

Austrian Airlines proved its taste: their passengers were served wine from Klosterneuburg Abbey. In small bottles, to keep the good mood on board from escalating to immeasurable heights – 0,375 litres, to be precise. This was known as Stifterl, named after the abbey (German: Stift). Luckily, you will be able to taste wine in larger quantities here.

DIVINE VINES

In 1860, the abbey donated vines of a grape known today as St. Laurent to the Klosterneuburg school of oenology. This was the beginning of this variety's success, which is very demanding in terms of its cultivation. The origin of the name, which is said to derive from the beginning of the grapes' ripening on August 10th (the day of St. Lawrence) is as uncertain as the original home of the grape variety. However, it is probably a cross between the French Pinot Noir and a variety that is no longer known today. What is certain, however, is that the canons of Klosterneuburg distributed the vine and that the abbey runs the largest contiguous St. Laurent vineyard in the world; in the Stiftsbreite region in Tattendorf.

VINEYARD WALK

Not far from the monastery, in the area of Kahlenbergerdorf near Vienna, one can find the monastery vineyards. These offer a magnificent view of the Danube. The south- and east-facing vineyards at the foot of the Leopoldsberg are home to classic vines such as Chardonnay and Pinot Blanc, as well as Pinot Noir. Of course, the famous Viennese “Gemischter Satz,” a blend of different grapes, is also produced here. Take a walk through this vineyard and learn more about the importance of viticulture, the grapes that grow here, and enjoy a glass of one of the varieties cultivated here at the end.

A PRAYER A DAY KEEPS THE DOCTOR AWAY

Piety protects the soul from many a thing, but sadly, physical illness is not one of them. Thus, the canonesses and canons tended to suffer from little ailments. In addition to the panacea bloodletting, a visit to the abbey's own pharmacy also provided relief. The account books show us what remedies were available there: Medicines, pills and syrup, all made with fresh and dried herbs from the apothecary's garden, such as parsley or camomile. One can imagine how many mixing vessels, mortars and other utensils were required for this – and what knowledge! The recipes for all kinds of tinctures and ointments were collected in pharmacopoeias, some of which are still preserved in the library today.

GARDEN TOUR

For centuries, the convent garden of Klosterneuburg Abbey has served the Augustinian Canons as a place of meditation and inspiration.

Starting from the Sala terrena, the unfinished garden hall of Emperor Charles VI, the tour leads through centuries-old gardens. You will experience the modern pond garden filled with old apple varieties, the medieval cloister garden, and the Renaissance-style fire fountain courtyard, as well as the convent garden. The latter was designed by Konrad Rosenthal in the mid-19th century according to the classical English model. The orangery of the convent garden was built by Joseph Kornhäusel. Numerous plant rarities can be admired in the abbey gardens.

To respect the privacy of the Augustinian Canons, the gardens are not open to the general public and can only be visited by pre-arranged groups. This exclusive opportunity allows groups to explore the abbey's secret gardens and have a unique experience.

WITH A LITTLE HELP FROM MY CANON

Egon Schiele was not very big on paying attention in class; he preferred to spend his time drawing! For this, he regularly got in trouble with his teachers – not the religious education teacher Wolfgang Pauker though. The canon recognised the talent of the alleged problem child and enabled him to take part in the abbey's first art exhibition. The seventeen-year-old caused quite the stir there thanks to the colours of his paintings, which mainly showed motifs from Klosterneuburg. This marks the beginning of his artistic career. Some of these works exhibited by Schiele in the Marble Hall in 1908 are still part of the abbey's art collection – Pauker would most definitely be delighted about this.

CALLED TO MINISTRY

The close contact of the Augustinian canons to the people was a motivating factor for Margrave Leopold III in his decision to bring this Order of priests to Klosterneuburg in 1133. At the time they were the most modern religious Order in the Roman Catholic Church. Still today the canons pursue their vocation to ministry, caring for communities of faithful in 28 parishes.

One place. A thousand stories.

THE AUGUSTINIAN CANONS

The focus of this tour lies on the history and work of the Order of Augustinian Canons Regular.

In 1133, the abbey's founder Margrave Leopold III brought the Order of Augustinian Canons to Klosterneuburg. Ever since then, the canons have lived and worked in this abbey according to the Rule of St. Augustine. Through this tour, you will not only learn about the life and work of St. Augustine and the many tasks of the order in the past and present, but you will also hear stories about particularly well-known Augustinian canons from Klosterneuburg. The guided tour leads across the Stiftsplatz to St. Leopold's Chapel and the Verdun Altar – situated at the abbey's medieval cloister and thus the very place where a canon's life as a new member of the order begins.

WINE TO WATER

During the great fire of 1330, the abbey church was in grave danger: all the water to extinguish the fire had already been used up! In order to save the Verdun altar – one of the most important work of arts from the medieval period – the precious enamel panels were wrapped in wine-soaked pieces of cloth. This way, they could be transferred into the Chapel of St. Leopold unscathed. Thanks to this fortunate rescue of the altar, the 800-year-old work of art can still be admired today.

The so-called Augustinussaal was built around 1508 as the abbey's refectory (dining hall). Nowadays, after a thorough renovation in the year 1725, the hall impresses with its Baroque façade. The stucco, as well as the large oil paintings stem from this time and are a perfect addition that enhances the room's elegance.
